TMEIC the First Japanese Company to Receive the Most Outstanding 2014 Global Company of the Year Award by Frost & Sullivan

Toshiba Mitsubishi-Electric Industrial Systems Corporation (hereinafter, "TMEIC"; President & CEO Kiyotaka Machida) received the 2014 Global Company of the Year Award in the PV inverter category. This top honor was presented by the major research and consulting firm Frost & Sullivan based in California in the United States.

Frost & Sullivan engages in business growth initiatives globally with a focus on market research, analysis and consulting. The firm presents Company of the Year awards annually based on independent research regarding companies that have exhibited outstanding achievements in activities and performance in respective industries. While the awards are separated into the Japan, Asia Pacific region and global markets, the global award currently won by TMEIC is positioned as the highest honor and TMEIC is the first Japanese company to receive this Global Company of the Year Award since the award was initially inaugurated.

Frost & Sullivan presented TMEIC with the award at this time in recognition of its high-performance and highly reliable inverter technologies. TMEIC was also acclaimed for the establishment of its production systems not only in Japan but also in the United States, China and India, which are designated as major markets of the PV business, and its global expansion initiatives in keeping pace with market trends. The Company was also highly evaluated regarding such items as its sales performance, in which TMEIC has achieved rapid growth particularly over the past two years, in addition to realizing cost optimization of power producers and the degree of customer satisfaction after installations.

The award presentation ceremony is scheduled to take place on March 10, 2015 at the 2015 Excellence in Best Practices Award Gala, which will be hosted by Frost & Sullivan in San Diego, California, in the United States.
